

The Ada Community Library provides access to recorded expression and information regardless of the formats or technologies, in accordance with the Library's collection development policy. Electronic information, services and networks provided directly or indirectly by the Library will be accessible at no charge to library users subject to the Library's Internet filtering policies.

While the Library desires to maintain patron confidentiality, it cannot guarantee patron confidentiality involving the electronic resources and services provided by the Library. Patrons should be aware that the Internet is not a secure medium and that third parties may be able to obtain information regarding users' activities.

The Library is not responsible for any loss of data, damage, or liability that may occur from use of electronic equipment and services, including with patron's portable storage media and other personally owned devices.

The Library does not endorse the viewpoints or vouch for the accuracy or authenticity of electronic information. Not all information available via the Internet is accurate, current, or complete. Users are encouraged to exercise critical judgment in evaluating the validity of information accessed via the Internet. Filters are in place as per the Children's Internet Protection Act (CIPA) and Idaho Code § 33-2741. However, filters are not 100% effective. The Library assumes no responsibility for any damages, direct or indirect, arising from its connection to the Internet.

Certain activities are prohibited, including, but not limited to: harassment of staff or members of the public, including in matters of race, creed, color, national origin, gender, disability or sexual orientation; viewing, storing or transmitting pornographic images, messages, graphics or cartoons; downloading, duplication or sharing of licensed software; unauthorized access of others' files or e-mails; and sending chain letters, spamming,
